Scope of project

- This is a small-scale project which involves creating a simple virtual piano site.

- This is project is front end based, our major focus at this point is functionality and design of piano, and we have used our skills in web development to achieve the same.

- Features that this site provides are you can change the scale and the key that is being played will be displayed.

Responsiveness

- Achieved up to a satisfactory extent website is fully functional in any device, work is still in progress to make the design look better.

Scope for further additions

- We are also aiming to add some amazing features like list of songs and notations which will be really helpful for the users and also to maintain links for video tutorials that will be helpful.
